MEAG FlexConcept – Basis

WKN / ISIN: A1KCHC / LU0887262433

The MEAG FlexConcept – Basis is a sub-fund of the umbrella construction MEAG FlexConcept (the fund).

The fund is a UCITS created in Luxembourg.

The fund is managed by MEAG Luxembourg S.à r.l. (the company).

The company is a subsidiary of MEAG MUNICH ERGO Kapitalanlagegesellschaft mbH.

Objectives and investment policy

The sub-fund's objective is to generate returns based on the European money market rate, while retaining the value of the invested money (no guarantee).

In order to achieve this, the sub-fund invests mainly in European money market instruments, bonds and/or cash at banks. Within these parameters, the selection of the individual assets is the responsibility of the fund management.

The sub-fund is actively managed with the objective to achieve a return in line with the European money market rate (the “Benchmark Index”), where the investment manager has discretion over the portfolio composition and is not limited to investing in accordance with the composition of the Benchmark Index. There will be a difference in composition of the portfolio and performance between the sub-fund and the Benchmark Index, which can be positive or negative, and may be material or differ completely from the Benchmark Index over a holding period of twelve months.

The sub-fund uses derivatives for hedging purposes, for efficient portfolio management and to generate additional earnings. Derivatives are financial instruments, the value of which depends on the performance of an underlying asset, such as a security, index or interest rate.

Investors can request the redemption of the units from the company or the custodian on any valuation day. The company can, however, suspend the redemption if exceptional circumstances make this appear necessary taking the investors' interests into account.

Earnings are not distributed, but reinvested in the sub-fund (accumulation/reinvestment).

Recommendation: This sub-fund may not be suitable for investors wishing to withdraw their money from the sub-fund within a period of twelve months.

Risk and reward profile

← Typically lower rewards / Lower risk

1	2	3	4	5	6	7

Typically higher rewards / Higher risk →

The risk and reward indicator is calculated on the basis of historical data, and represents the fluctuation level of the unit price in seven categories, describing the relationship between the chance of value appreciations and the risk of value losses. This ratio can be influenced by fluctuations in the prices of the assets invested in, and where applicable by exchange rate fluctuations.

The sub-fund's classification may change over time and is neither an objective nor a guarantee. Even classification in category 1 does not mean the investment is entirely free of risk.

The sub-fund is classified as being category 1 because its unit price typically fluctuates only minimally, and thus the likelihood of both losses and gains can accordingly be very small.

The following risks can be of particular significance for the sub-fund and are not adequately captured by the indicator.

- Credit risks: The sub-fund invests a significant part of its assets in money market instruments and bonds. The issuers of these can become insolvent, leading to the assets losing much or all of their value.
- Default risks: The sub-fund enters into significant amounts of derivatives transactions with various contractual partners. There is the risk that such contractual partners may cease to be able to meet their payment or delivery obligations.
- Risks of using derivatives: The sub-fund uses derivatives transactions to achieve higher value appreciation and/or to profit from rising or falling prices. The chance of higher returns goes hand-in-hand with the risk of greater losses.
- Operational risks: Human or technical errors occurring within or outside the company, and other events (e.g. natural disasters and legal risks) can result in losses for the sub-fund.
- Custodian risks: There can be a risk of loss in connection with the safekeeping of assets, in particular in other countries, which arises from insolvency, breaches of duties of care or misconduct on the part of the custodian or sub-custodian.

Note: In its “Risk Information” section, the sales prospectus contains a detailed description of the risks associated with the investment policy of the sub-fund.
